Thought Reading by a Watch. A most puzzling trick is "though mending by a watch." Place a watch an a table, ask some one to think of a certain hour, and then to consider that he has counted up to that num ber! Tell him you will point at varicas hours on the watch, and that he west add the number of times you point to the number of the hour of cles. which he thought. Instruct him that when he reaches No. 20 he must tell were to stop pointing, and you will then be pointing at the hour he se-Moreted.

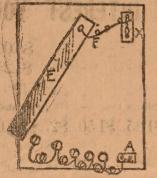

For example: Say he thinks of 7 Cirlock. When you have pointed 13 ber of impulses are produced singly Times he must stop you, because he and at irregular intervals, very little tes then counted to 20. Now it does mot matter of what hour he thought; the 20th count you will have arat the correct hour if you re there to follow the hours around tweekward, i. e., from 12 to 11, and regularly and constantly. me on till you are told to stop.

Mystifying Card Trick.

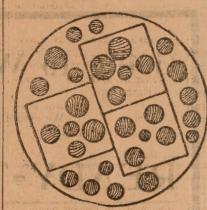

A simple and mystifying card trick as the will power trick. You let any come shuffle the cards, then take them your own hand and ask another nerson to cut them. Now throw them a table, but as you do so get a mose of the bottom card, which is, we will say, the nine of hearts. Scatthe fle cards a little but carefully wate the position of the nine of MARYER

Symposione hands you a card without longer end serves as a handle, while boking at its face. "Thank you," you the other end keeps the spool from "Quite right-nine of hearts." Meally, however, it is the jack of anades; so you now ask for the jack ! of spudes, and get, let us say, seven Mamonds. You then say that you will pick a card from the table yourrelf-the seven of diamonds. You Take the card, however, which you handw to be the nine of hearts. You Then show the three cards, which are, of course, the three you named, so that it appears that you actually have made your spectators pick out the wards you wanted.

Customs Unchanged. Almost every aching village in Holsand has its special dress and its own ment customs. One can see from The Dutch pictures that these have not maried for the last 200 years. Cne most interesting place is the island Marken, a tongue of land on the margin of the Zuyder Zee, which can well be inspected in a couple of hours. It is so little above the sea level that the clusters of houses, or tiny villages, are built on mounds connected by saidges, and nearly every little house has its own little moat and its own mule boat-everything, except the people, is on a diminutive scale in Wolland moored near the door, so as to be handy in case of flood. The church and the clergyman's house, are built of wood on high piles. They are more of them very old, as the place firs often been flooded and burnt; in winter Marken is often under water and the inhabitants use boats to pass nom one village to another. The cottages, which are painted blue, green black, with pointed gables, and world with red tiles, are all exactly withe and possess only a ground door smalt on high piles.

Simple Experiments. A very interesting branch of study is vibration.

A vibration you know, is defined as an impulse, but if a series or numeffect upon anything can be produced. If the reverse is true, however, results often astounding will be noticed.

And that, by the way, teaches an immember always to let your eighth portant lesson. You cannot do anypainting be to 12 o'clock, and from thing of any account by means of a single effort. You must "keep at it,"

Did you ever, with a playmate, cross a stream walking over a plank, keeping step the while?

What happened? Why, the plank bemess, a piece of copper and some gan to jump and bounce until you both came near falling into the water. Your regular footfalls set up vibration, and the plank was obedient to Probably you know that as a rule oldiers are obliged to break step when crossing a bridge. If they continued marching such vibration would be set up that the bridge would probably fall. In going over a great many railroad bridges the speed of locomotives must be slackened, because the regular swing of the pistons results in the same manner.

Bones as Sound Conductors. It appears that the human bones are ready conductors of sound, and a knowledge of this character now receives practical attention by the employment of the tuning fork to determine the extent and nature of fractures. If there is no fracture then the bell of the stethoscope distinctly conveys the note from the fork; if there is fracture then the continuity is broken and the sound is not heard at all.

and admiration of her husband should be a woman's constant study. Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Potts tell their stories for the benefit of all wives and mothers.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: - Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will make every mother well, strong, healthy and happy. I dragged through nine years of miserable existence, worn out with pain and weariness. I then reticed a statement of a woman troubled as I was, and the wonderful results she had had from your Vegetable Compound, and decided to try what it would do for me, and used it for three months. At the end of that time I was a different woman, the neighbors remarked it, and my husband fell in love with me all over again. It seemed like a new existence. I had been suffering with indammation and falling of the womb, but your medicine cured that and built up my entire system, till I was indeed like a new woman.—Sincerely yours, Mrs. Chas. F. Brewn, 21 Cedar Terrace, Het Speings, Ark., Vice President Mothers' Club."

Suffering women should not fail to profit by Mrs. Brown's experiences: just as surely as she was cured of the troubles enumerted in her letter, just so surely will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure other women who suffer from womb troubles, inflammation of the ovaries, kidney troubles, nervous excitability, and nervous prostration. Read the story of Mrs. Potts to all wothers: -

DEAR MES. PINKHAM: - During the early part of my married life I was very delicate in health. I had two miscarriages, and both my husband and I felt very badly as we were anxious to have children. A neighbor who had been using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advised me to try it, and I decided to do so. I soon felt that my appetite was increasing, the headaches gradually decreased and finally disappeared, and my general health improved. I delt as if new blood coursed through my veins, the skuggish tired feeling disappeared, and I became strong and well.

EARS TO THE GROUND. It would be well, we think, if those who are manipulating Mr. Warner's interests in Wayne county to pay some attention to the storm that is brewing over their attempts to repeat the methods of the past two or three campaigns.

It is very plain to those who are calmly observing the scrap in that county that Mr. Warner is in the hands of unscrupulous politicians who seek their ends by any means they can command, whether fair and honest or otherwise. If any of these strikers flatter themselves that the people are indifferent, they should recall the mani fest uneasiness in every section of the state. The widespread agitation is mighty significant. The recent manifesto from Ingham county is only a reflection of the sentiment existing throughout the state at large, latent it may be, and given expression constantly in personal and private in-

Another thing should be borne in mind. and that is that previous great majorities are no index as to what voters may do at the next election. Prior to the nomination of Grover Cleveland for governor in 1882 New York was safely republican, but by reason of some trickery at the state republican convention in Albany, by which Judge Folger was nominated instead of the man expected, the state rolled up a majority of 192,000 for the democratic candidate. It was the way the people took to rebuke the party for admitting proxies to the convention who had no right to their seats in that body.

After two state republican conventions have endorsed primary election reform and the party have been cheated out of their rights and refused their demands by a coterie of machine politicians, it will be well for those seeking office to remember that there is a limit to endurance for party's sake, and be warned in time to prevent the disaster of defeat.

The democrats in their late convention have wisely trimmed their sails to catch the breeze of awakened public sentiment in favor of primary reform, and republi cans, for four years disgusted by the trickery of the machine, are in just the mood to strike, and if they do strike it will be with an energy as irresistible as that given to the republicans of New York in 1882. Ears to the ground, say many republicans in this locality.

TO HARDWARE DEALERS.

If the stories of devices for making housekeeping easier are half of them true, it would be a delight to the tired housemistress to find the articles, or informa tion about them, in the hands of our deal ers here. One of the things most wanted is a stove that is economical of fuel. Yet our dealers never advertise a stove in which that virtue is claimed to be a prominent one: And the devices for cooking several things over one burner, other than the cooker that is piled up in stories like a skyscraper-who ever hears of it? And yet there is said to be such a cooker with a side door. If it is effective, it ought to find a ready sale everywhere. Possibly our dealers know of it, but they never tell about it.

And how about the device for keeping food hot? We hear about the work it does, but nothing about itself-where it is made, what it costs and who sells it. For knowledge of the improvements in household articles, especially in the kitchen, the housewife is dependent upon the illustrated ads. in the city papers, and then must go on a general exploring expedition to find whether anybody here keeps them. The household magazine was right which said that dealers in hardware made a great mistake in not advertising such articles women were anxious to get anything of the kind which would save work, and would be glad to know where they could be found. And it might have added that the surest way to draw general custom is to cater to the women's part of the trade. for where the women are satisfactorily supplied the men will be sure to follow, "Where you find a crowd of women," says Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, "you'll always find a fringe of men on the edge," and the remark holds good now as when she made it concerning the beginnings of her work with the sanitary commission in the civil war. And the dealer who is disposed to test it, will find that that wise woman knew what she was talking about.

KING EDWARD will not feel much like extending his royal favor to those London papers which are worrying over the danger to which they fear he is exposed—that of being hypnotized by the Kaiser. Edward has not reached the age of senility, not by a score of years, at least.

"A SECRET."

One great secret of youth and beauty for the young woman or the mother is the roper understanding of her womanly system and well-being. Every woman, young rold, should know herself and her physically should be an expectation of the physical should be an expectation of the physical should be an expectation of the property of the physical should be an expectation of the property of the physical should be an expectation of the property of the physical should be an expectation of the property of the physical should be an expectation of the physical should be applied by the physi or old, should know herself and her physical make up. A good way to arrive at this knowledge is to get a good doctor book, such, for instance, as the "People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by R. V. Pierce, M. D., which can readily be procured by sending twenty-one cents in one-cent stamps for paper-bound volume, or thirty-one cents for cloth-bound copy, addressing Dr. R. V. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y. The change from maidenhood to womanhood is one that involves the whole body. The strain at this time upon the blood-forming structures may be too great. Disorders of the functions peculiarly feminine orders of the functions peculiarly feminine are nearly always dependent upon defective nutrition. In all such cases Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is just the vegetable tonic for the female system.

"I cannot express my thanks for the benefit I have received from Dr. Pierce's medicines," writes Mrs. Julius Wehrly, of Cambridge, Dorchester Co., Md. "I took 'Favorite Prescription' and feel that a perfect cure has been effected. I feel like thanking you for the kind and fatherly letters which you wrote." Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was the first exclusively woman's tonic on the market. It has sold more largely in the past third of a century than any other medicine for women. Do not let the druggist persuade you to try some compound that has not had the test of so many years'

dome Characteristics of One of the Most Interesting of Men. Ruskin's kindness had its roots in the essential sweetness of his nature. Everything in life had conspired to spoil him. He was often willful and wayward and extravagant, but the better elements of his being prevailed over those which, to his harm, were to gain power when he was released from the controlling influence of his father's good sense and his mother's authority. The extraordinary keenness of his perceptions of external things, the vivacity of his intelligence, the ardor of his temperament, the immense variety of his interests and occupations and the restless energy and industry with which he pursued them, made him one of the most interesting of men. And combined as they were with deep poetic and deeper moral sentiment as well as with a born desire to give pleasure, they gave to intercourse with him a charm which increased as acquaintance grew into affectionate friendship. His mind was indeed at his time in a state of ferment. He was still mainly busy with those topics of art and nature to which his writings had hitherto been devoted. But his work in the field had led him into other fields of inquiry, which stretched wide and dark before him, through which no clear paths were visible and into which he was entering not without hope of opening a way. Hence-

STONE ANIMAL WORSHIP. Images That Stand For the Buddhist

Idea of Reincarnation. Francis H. Nichols in his journey through the Chinese province of Shensi saw a temple where stone animals were worshiped. He says: "In rows of heavily barred brick cages are stone images of animals. They are all life size and are remarkably well executed. Among them are elephants, tigers and monkeys, whose sculptors must have secured their models a long distance from Shensi, where the originals are not found. The stone animals stand for the Buddhist idea of reincarnation. They are worshiped as sacred and are supposed, in a vague way, to be endowed with life. It is to prevent them from escaping and running away from their worshipers that the cages have wooden bars in front of them. Between the two temples was a pond, where fish were fonged or set at lib erty. In its workings the system of fonging animals has very much the effect of a humane society on the western side of the world. On the theory that any of the brute creation may be the dwelling place of the soul of a former human being, lame and sick animals become the care of the priests. In some of the larger temples special provision is made for caring for sick cats and dogs. To fong an animal of any kind is considered an act of supreme virtue. To obtain good luck a pious Chinaman will sometimes purchase a live fish and have a priest fong it. This is done by placing it in the pond reserved for the purpose near the temple.'

LESSON XI, SECOND QUARTER, INTER-NATIONAL SERIES, JUNE 12.

Text of the Lesson, Mark xv. 22-39. Memory Verses, 25-27-Golden Text, I Cor. xv, 3-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1904, by American Press Association.] He is now wholly in the hands, by His own voluntary will and by the will of His Father, of those who for the time being seem to be possessed by demons. Verses 16 to 20, the section between the last lesson and this one, begin and end with the words, "And the soldiers led Him away, * * * led Him out to crucify Him." Between these two sentences comes all the history of Jesus in the hands of the soldiers. the mocking, the smiting, the spitting, the crowning with thorns. But who can describe it? Who ever heard of a prisoner, even though justly condemned to die, subjected to such inhuman treat-

But it was all foreseen and written by the prophets: "They gaped upon me with their mouths, as a ravening and a roaring lion, for dogs have compassed me, the assembly of the wicked have inclosed me." "Reproach hath broken my heart, I am full of heaviness." (Ps. xxii, 13, 16; lxix, 20.)

In John xix, 17, it is written, "And He, bearing His cross, went forth." It would appear that Jesus Himself bore His own cross as they started forth for Calvary, but for some reason they laid hold upon this Simon, a Cyrenian, and compelled him to bear the cross, either wholly or in part, after Jesus (Luke xxiii, 26). Consider the physical condition of our Lord after the agony and bloody sweat of Gethsemane, the long night of mocking and buffeting, the merciless scourging and all that He afterward suffered at the hands of the soldiers, and was it not a wonder that He could stand at all, much less walk or bear

No other mortal ever did or can enjoy the privilege of this Simon, but where was Simon Peter, who said he would die with Him rather than deny Him? He is not ready, and this apparently unfortunate but truly blessed African has the honor. Consider Rom. xvi, 13; Acts xi, 20; xiii, 1, and the possible connection with this event. Matthew, Mark and John call the place where He was crucified Golgotha, while Luke calls it Calvary, which is the Greek equivalent and has the same signification, "the place of a skull."

Only Luke mentions the fact that a great company of people and of women followed Him out of the city, bewailing and lamenting Him, and that He turned and spoke to the women, telling them that they had more cause to weep for themselves and for their children than for Him because of the judgments that would come on the city. It is also in Luke only that we find that the two malefactors were led in the procession with Him (Luke xxiii, 27-32)

It is written in Ps. lxix, 21, "They gave Me also gall for My meat, and in My thirst they gave Me vinegar to drink." This also was fulfilled. If this was a stupefying potion mercifully given to lessen the sufferings, it is manifest that Jesus would take nothing to lighten in any way that which He came to endure. "And when they had crucified Him."

Who can tell the agony contained in that sentence? It was the most ignominious and painful punishment known. The anguish caused by the nails tearing through nerves and tendons, the inflammation caused by the exposure of these wounds to the air. the violent pain from the least motion all caused inexpressible misery from which there was no relaxation or rest till death ensued. Another Scripture was fulfilled, "They pierced my hands and my feet," and yet another, "They part my garments among them and cast lots upon my vesture" (Ps. xxii, 16, 18), for when the four soldiers divided His gamments, to every soldier a part, they found that He wore also a seam less coat, and for that they cast lots (John xix, 23, 24).

How minutely all was foretold and how literally all was fulfilled! Just as literally all unfulfilled prophecy shall yet be fulfilled. As you see Him enduring these untold agonies and remember that it is written, "Cursed is every one that hangeth on a tree!" does your heart say with great sympathy with Him, but with gladness because of Him, "Christ hath redeemed me from the curse of the law, being made a curse for me?" (Deut. xxi, 23; Gal. iii, 13.)

The two thieves were crucified, one on His right hand and the other on His left, and thus another Scripture was fulfilled, which saith, "And He was numbered with the transgressors" (Isa. IIII, 12). His enemies sat down to watch Him, and both they and the passersby reviled Him and derided Him and railed on Him. The thieves also reviled Him, but one of them afterward believed on Him and was saved. The superscription of His accusation was set up over His head in Hebrew and Greek and Latin (Luke xxiii, 38), and thus was proclaimed to all the world the truth yet to be made manifest to all nations that the despised and crucified Nazarene is indeed the King of the Jews, who as an immortal man shall sit on David's throne and reign over the house of Jacob and over all the earth (Luke i, 32, 33; Zech. xiv, 9). Consider well His seven sayings from the cross, so full of eternal significance, and may our hearts truly cry with the centurion, "This man is the Son of God!" Forgiveness now, glory hereafter, all we need in between-these are suggested by His first three words concerning the soldiers, to the thief and to John, and should lead the redeemed to cry, My Lord and my God, whose I am and whom I serve! (John xx, 28; Acts xxvii, 23.)

Meanderings of a Michigander.

To the Editor of The Ypsilantian: The whirligig of time brought round the nour when we must bid good-bye to the many good friends in Orlando, so packing our grips, with many cordial handshakes, we were soon on the train, with our noses pointed for Michigan.

Before giving an account of our journey I will give you a Michigan man's opinion of this town. Mr. Alonzo Yates of Allens Stony Creek Grange observe their Chil- | Creek, Mich., had suffered long with lung disease and hemorrhages, and had spent several months in the hospital at Ann Ar bor and was pronounced incurable. He came South in November last, with no hope of recovery. He has gained in health steadily, has no idea of dying, and breaks forth into singing as follows:

Say, it's awful fine and gay,

Sun a-shining every day In Orlando.

Ain't no frost nor bitin' air Sweepin' thro' a fellow's hair, Till he's cussin' in despair,

In Orlando. Oh, the skies are soft and blue, And the weather's every hue In Orlando

Folks they come and look and smile, Play golf and fish and spend their pile And swear they'll all their days beguile

In Orlando. How the roses flame and glow In Orlando.

Seem to say "We only grow In Orlando.' Wavin' over you, the palm,

And your heart's soaked full of calm, In Orlando. If I should hear Death's trumpet, dear Callin' for me loud and clear

In Orlando. Seems to me I'd hide and say, "Angel, I'm in bliss to-day; You keep heaven, and let me stay Down here in Orlando."

Our journey homeward was uneventful except when nearing Chattanooga an axle broke under a coach, but not derailing it. and only detained us a couple of hours but breaking our connection with trains going north, so we were obliged to remain for eight hours in that city, and while there took occasion to visit the famous Lookout Mountain and the National Cem-

The Gas Proposition of Vital Interest to the Farming Community.

To the Editor of The Ypsilantian: Whatever tends to enhance the value of property in a city must, of necessity, enhance the value of the country surround ing it. The Development Company is now nearly ready to begin taking leases of lands, and those who are fortunate with indications of oil or gas sufficient to interest the company to lease it, have added a value to the land hitherto unknown. It may be called a speculative value, but it is more than the original value of the land, Should the land be sought for an investment, it will sell for more money leased than land that is not leased. Should well go down and gas or oil be found, the speculative value of that land is worth one thousand times the actual value. The stock of the Development Company is being taken so fast and the call from the country by men wanting to take stock and give leases, that the stock will be largely over-subscribed, and the management have thought advisable to set aside a certain amount to our country cousins to insurthem what they have asked for.

THE QUEER MANDINGOES.

In This African Tribe the Wives Wear the Trousers.

The Mandingoes, who inhabit a tract of country in Africa, are strict Mohammedans in religion; but, curiously enough, they still retain many of the superstitions of the negro races from which they sprang. Consequently their marriage ceremony is a mixture of the two, and, although it is performed by a marabout or holy man in the mosque, it contains one very ridiculous element. Next in importance to the marabout is the bridegroom's sister, and when the marriage ceremony reaches the point where the visible bond, usually typified in civilization by the ring, this sister steps forward and in place of the ring presents the lady with a pair of trousers, which are immediately donned. The ceremony is concluded by a very mournful song sung by the companions of the bride, who then conduct her again to the home of her parents, as, owing to the extreme probability of one or the other retracting at any moment by reason of an unfavorable omen, no house is built until the ceremony is completed. Polygamy is the rule, but each wife has her own house. They are the most tyrannical wives in Africa and, hating each other, band the slightest pain."-Philadelphia Rectogether against their husband and rule him with a rod of iron.

MOSAIC WORK.

How Paintings Are Reproduced In the Little Colored Squares. In order to reproduce a painting in mosaic the artists or artisans take a flat sheet of iron of the same size as the painting surrounded by a border about an inch high. This receptacle is then filled with plaster so as to obtain a perfectly flat surface. On this the outlines of the figures are drawn. The plaster is then cut up into small squares, which are to be removed and gradually replaced by as many small squares of mosaic of the same size. In the holes left empty when the plaster is taken away a new plaster made of travertine dust, lime and linseed oil is poured.

After three days this new plaster acquires the necessary consistency, and in this the artist sticks the little colored squares. When all the surface of the plaster is covered with these colored pieces of mosaic the whole is washed with sand and water until it becomes quite smooth. The colored pieces are made of mixtures of different minerals, like arsenic, lead, glass, etc. These minerals are placed in an oven, and the different colors are obtained by the different degrees of heat, and as many as 28,000 various colors can be obtained.

How Wood Lasts In a Dry Place. In situations so free from moisture that we may practically call them dry the durability of timber is almost unlimited. The roof of Westminster hall is more than 450 years old. In Sterling castle are carvings in oak well preserved over 300 years of age. Scotch fir has been found in good condition after a known use of 300 years, and the trusses of the roof of the basilica of St. Paul's, Rome, were sound and good after a thousand years of service.

A Chinese Secret.

When a Chinaman wants to have a tooth drawn he feels no nervous apprehension of pain, for the excellent eason that he knows his dentist will not inflict any, it is said. The latter simply rubs a secret powder over the aching tooth. After about five minutes the patient sneezes, and the tooth falls out. Many attempts have been made by Europeans to get some of this mysterious powder, but no one has yet succeeded.

DIAGNOSING PAIN.

Physical Signs Which Distinguish

Real From Assumed Suffering. "'How do you diagnose pain?' was one of the questions put by the state board the year I received my diploma," said a young dentist. "I was rather stumped at the time, but I have since learned that the query was a perfectly natural one. The idea is to differentiate between real pain and assumed pain. There are some people so stoical while in the operating chair that not a sound escapes them, not even the suspicion of a grunt, though they may be suffering severely. On the other hand, there are people, men and women alike, who try to give the impression that every touch of an instrument is tor-

Willing to Be Half Killed. Among the depositors in an Akron bank was an old fellow who was quite a miser. A local physician who was a great student of his profession said to the old man one day: "John, I'll give you $10,000 if you'll let me cut a certain vein. It will kill you, but then you will have the $10,000." The miser considered for a moment and replied, "Let me think over that till tomorrow." Next day he called on the doctor and said: "I've figured that thing out and I can't see what good the $10,000 would do me after I am dead. But, say, I'll let you half kill me for $5,000." Bell That Has Rung For a Century. A sacred bell in a town in north China has been kept ringing for a century. A tax for paying relays of ringers to pull its rope incessantly day and night is willingly paid by the inhabitants, for it is implicitly believed by the benighted people that whenever the tongue touches the metal a devil is squelched forever. Thus it is to the public interest, according to this superstition, to have as many of these objectionable spirits done away with as

There was no shadow of envy or jealousy in his thoughts as he looked into rooms brilliant in light, and looked inthe face of the companion of his boyhood, and heard him speak calmly of women; he mingled with the jeweled millions and of launching them against the giants of Wall street.

"I can do it! I will do it!" he exclaimed. "I see your plan, and its magnificent, John, magnificent! will win-win beyond a doubt." John was silent for a moment, and a far-off look came to his eyes. "I have two important personal commissions for you, Jim," he said. While in New York ascertain for me if Arthur Morris is alive. Find out what he is doing, and learn what you can about him. The second task is a more delicate one. It concerns Miss Carden. I wish to know---

"I know exactly what you want," inis, how she is, if she loves you,

"You need not attempt the latter task," said John rather shortly. "You are likely to undertake too much. For the present I do not care to acquaint Miss Carden, or any one in the East, with my whereabouts, or even with the fact of my existence. Be careful in this matter, Jim. Of course you will go to Hingham and visit your kinsfolk. You can easily learn all I eare to know from the Bishops, or perhaps from Sam Rounds. If not, go to Boston; but get the facts without calling on Miss Carden. You under-

The once dull eyes glowed with the newly-lighted fires of avarice. The sensuous lips dropped at the corners with a cruel curve. The former air of indifference was replaced by the alertness of defense and aggressiveness.

Close observers predicted a great career for Arthur Morris. His father was delighted with the transformation and did not hesitate to give to his heir the keys which unlocked the Morris treasurer vaults.

Morris lived, and the thought came to Blake that the score was even between John and the young millionaire. The feud had made John richwhy should John complain? And Arthur Morris did not seem to be such a bad sort of a fellow after all.

Thus reasoned Blake as Morris took his arm and led him away from the noisy club men.

"Well;" replied Cobb, with a smile, 'we've all got to take chances in this world."

A score of interrogations as to why he was alone followed, and Cobb, in spite of his desire to let the matter drop, found it impossible to avoid an explanation.

Septimus Cobb was a Kentuckian by birth. From his earliest youth he had been of a roving, adventurous disposition. At the outbreak of the war he had raised a company of cavalry, and step by step had won promotion until he was in command of a brigade. The close of the war found him with the possession of the title "General," a fund of splendid physical health, indomitable courage, restless energy, and an unsatisfied ambition. He was poor. He wanted wealth, and he went to California.

For years after he led the life of thousands of restless adventurers in the far West. Editor, miner, speculator-everything by turns. Two fortunes made-and lost. He came East, and lost that. It was while casting about for the easiest and quickest after supper they drove to the Morris means of making a fourth fortune that, hearing of the marvelous development of Russ an oil territory on the shores vestigate its possibilities. Cross a Popular Ornament.

The renewed popularity of the cross as an crnament is variously ascribed to the cyclic swing of time and the revival of old styles, old songs, and ing in a railroad station for his train other favorites of days long vanished, to the continually increasing list of religious and other societies using the cross as a distinguishing emblem, and change from the long-used locket as tion that conditions must be improved to the desire for some rival of or a finish for the ever popular gold or at once. Miss Childs' Recital.

The graduating recital by Miss Edna Ella Childs, mezzo soprano, given at Normal Hall Tuesday evening, was greatly enjoyed by a large audience. Miss Childs possesses a voice of much richness and power, that gives promise of developing into something far beyond the ordinary. She sings with ease and puts much feeling into her singing, as in the German lieder, which were especially suited to her voice and manner. The aria by Cowen was rather out of the common run, and was sung with expression and skill. The third of the Browning group, "Ah, love but a day!" was also delightful. Although Miss Childs' voice is brilliant in quality, it lends itself well to appealing, haunting melodies like the old favorites, "Long, long ago" and "It was a dream." A few years of further study will give Miss Childs a very high rank among singers. Her accompaniments were delightfully played by Director Pease and Miss Lorin-

The second Cleary college-Ypsilanti high school game yesterday was a succession of scraps. Cleary claims a victory 16 to 15, but the high school claim that one school Beatty, Braley and Crist did some spectacular playing and the feature of the Cleary side was the hitting of Haight and Fuller. The Cleary catcher, Burton, was away, and Cleary played nearly half substitutes. Haight, who pitched after the second inning, was very wild but Fuller caught well. Batteries, Haight and Fuller, Witmire and Crist. Umpire, Ryan.

the Amounts a Creditor May Accept In Different Coins.

Ordinarily when a debtor appears before a long time creditor there is no questioning of the United States coin in which the debt is to be paid, but the wide possibilities possessed by an most to discourage borrowing. You can't force a mean creditor to cents. If you could get as much as $5 worth of old silver three cent pieces of another generation you could unload $5 worth on him, just as he would cent pieces and $5 worth of the obsolete twenty cent pieces, which made half dollars. The trade dollars, of which there are a few still coming into the trasury of the United States for redemption, are worth nothing, while the standard dollar is an unlimited legal tender, as is the old "dol The Ypsilanti Development Company lar of our dads," the first of which was coined in 1794 and the last in 1873. Coins that virtually have disappeared from circulation are gold three and one dollar pieces, the trade dollar of silver, the nickel three cent piece, the copper two cent piece, the copper half cent and silver three and five cent pieces.—Chicago Tribune.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

The Famous Case of Lesurques of the Lyons Mail.

The most famous of all cases of misaken identity is that of Lesurques, charged with the robbery and murder of the courier of the Lyons mail, which has been so vividly brought home to us through the dramatic play based upon it. Lesurques was positively identified as a man who had traveled by the mail coach, and he was in due course convicted. Yet at the eleventh hour a woman came into court and declared his innocence, swearing that the witnesses had mistaken him for another, Duboscq, whom he greatly resembled. morning service. Subject of Lesson-ser- She was the confidant of one of the gang who had planned and carried out the robbery. But her testimony, although corroborated by other confederates, was rejected, and Lesurques received sentence of death. Lesurques died protesting his innocence to the last. Four years elapsed before Duboscq was captured. In the interval others of the gang had passed through the hands of the police, but the prime mover was only now taken. Even then he twice escaped from prison. When finally he was put on his trial and the judge ordered a fair wig, such as Lesurques had worn, to be placed on his head, the strange likeness was immediately apparent. He denied his guilt, but was convicted and guillotined. Thus two men suffered for one

One Cent Claims Against Uncle Sam. There have been several one cent claims against the United States government. One was by the Southern for hauling government freight. It was a bond aided road, only part of its bills against the government being paid in cash, the rest going to the railroad's credit on the bonds. In this case its credit was $5.28 and its cash a cent. Another government obligation of a single cent was in favor of a chemical company which for some unexplained reason agreed in a public competition to supply 16,892 pounds of ethyl ether for a cent. The offer was accepted. There were nine signatures, one that of a rear admiral, on the paper relating to the establishment of this claim, and the warrant for payment had to be signed by several per-

Some years ago the late Marquis of Queensberry made a bet of 1,000 guineas that he would produce a man who would eat more at a meal than any Sir John Lade could find. The bet being accepted, the time was appointed, but his lordship not being able to attend the exhibition he wrote to his agent to know the result and presently received the following note:

My Lord-I have not time to state particulars, but merely to acquaint your grace that your man beat his antagonist by a pig and an apple pie.

Too Unanimous. "Talk about men being lords of creation! Why, I can twist that husband of mine around my little finger.'

ULLOA'S CIRCLES.

The White Rainbow and One Oceasion When It Was Observed.

A wonderful atmospheric phenome non, described by both Ulloa and Bonger, was first observed by the first named gentleman during the stay of himself and party in the Pinchincha. One morning at daybreak the whole mountain top was covered with a dense fog. After a short while the atmosphere became tolerably clear with the exception of a few vaporous clouds. While the travelers were watching the gradual disappearance of the fog one of them turned quickly and perceived an image of himself distinctly mirrored on that quarter of the sky opposite the rising sun. The figure appeared to stand in the center of three concentric rings which were around was a fourth and much larger ring tinted with but a single hue. The outermost edge of each of the interior rings was crimson, the next orange, with a shade of pale yellow, the innermost tint being of a brilliant green. When first seen these rings were hardly circular in form, but they soon became perfect. But as they did so, which depended on the rising of the sun toward the zenith, the colors gradually disappeared until finally the whole apparition faded like a mirage from the gaze of the astonished sci-

Low Belling.

What used to be known as "low belling" was formerly a common sport in England and an effective method of capturing all sorts of birds which roost on the ground, from larks to partridges. Boys still sometimes amuse themselves with it in the rural districts of England, and the peasants of Spain and the south of Europe make a business of it. The only necessary apparatus is a large bell, like a cowbell or a dinner bell, and a lantern with a reflector to cast a bright ray of light on the ground. The fowler turns out on dark nights and walks the fields ringing the bell steadily and searching the ground in front with the lantern. The noise or the light, or the two combined, have such an effect in dazzling or terrifying the birds that they may be picked up in the hand.

Our First Iron Casting. What is believed to be the first iron easting made in the territory now included in the United States is preserved in Lynn, Mass. Its history is well authenticated. It is a cooking pot weighing a little over two pounds. It was made about 1642 near Lynn, where a small blast furnace was built that year. This furnace used charcoal for fuel, with bog ore found in the meadow along the Saugus river and oyster shells as flux. The furnace was operated until 1688, with some intermissions.—Scientific American.

Work and Worry.

It is a common mistake that to wory hard is to work hard. The way to ucceed is to work and not to worry; the way to fail is to worry and not to work. The way to neither succeed nor fail is to both work and worry; that is the way to kill yourself.-London Truth.

MOVING PICTURES.

Were Used by the Egyptians Long Centuries Ago.

There is reason to suppose that the terrible scenes by which initiates into the ancient Egyptian mysteries were impressed were some sort of moving pictures, although how they were produced before the invention of glass lenses can only be surmised.

From the fourteenth century onward such representations were almost as common, though not, of course, so perfect, as they are nowadays. Chancer mentions them as the "appearances which subtail tregetours perform at feasts," the kind of shows which would appeal to the taste of the period famed for hunting, hawking and jousting, which were represented. As lenses were known at this date these appearces were probably managed by se kind of rude magic lantern, although that in its modern form was not known antil long afterward. Whatever the apparatus was, its use must have been very widely spread. for such diverse witnesses as Benvenuto Cellini and Sir John Mandeville testify to having seen its results. The latter has left it on record that he saw moving pictures at the court of the Great Khan in central Asia.

DWARF TREES.

The Abnormal Growths That Ave Produced by the Japanese. The curious modification of natural growth dates far back. We read that in 1826 Professor Meylan saw a box. one inch square and three inches high. in which were growing a fir. a hamboo and a tiny plum tree thick with blos-The Swedish botanist and traveler

Carl Thunberg in 1807 described a number of these abnormal growths and told of the pride with which Japanese garden experts produced dwarf trees for practical purposes as well as those weird little midgets which excite our wonder. He saw, for instance, orange trees six inches high which bore fruit the size of a cherry, "and yet sweet and palatable."

The secret of their system is based upon such well known principles as the retardation of the flow of sap, the selection of the smallest seeds, gathered from the smallest trees; a minimum supply of water and the nipping out of leaders and the checking of taproots and of all vigorous shoots. They take for their purpose trees which retain vitality under most adverse conditions. The Chinese are their sole rivals in this eccentric art.
